Biography

Alex Russell works with coding, drawing, painting, collage and photography to make one-off prints in a range of sizes and to commission. His generative processes build artworks from pre-prepared images. His code models compositional methods (from art and design) with complex systems theory (from science and maths) to explore concepts of non-repeating, infinite pattern.

Prior to being a full-time artist, Alex was a print/pattern designer and lecturer. His book "The Fundamentals Of Printed Textiles Design" is in its 2nd edition and has been translated into French and Spanish. He had an international client list and features widely in books about printed textiles. He was programme leader of MA Fashion and Textiles and BA Textile Design for Fashion at MMU.

Alex has exhibited and presented world-wide, including in London (UK), New York (US), Paris (FR), Amsterdam (NL), Frankfurt (DE), Ljubljana (RS), Aarhus (DK), Xuzhou (CH) and Auckland (NZ).
