Biography

My work explores the interplay of movement and light within the environment, and the influence of meteorological factors on the colours and shadows that surround us.

Using jewellery making techniques, I create repeating sculptural forms, mainly from metal, that when grouped together become small installations, kinetic sculptures or 3D wall pieces.

I was brought up in rural Dumfriesshire and worked as a Physiotherapist before embarking on a second career as an Artist. I now work from a studio on the North Wales/Shropshire/Cheshire border, where I am able to totally immerse myself in the sights and sounds of my rural location.
