Biography

I am an artist based in Chester. After beginning my studies in Chester, I gained credibility in London, studying Fine Art at St Martins School of Art and having notable tutors such as Norman Ackroyd... In my final year I was awarded the Boise scholarship (from the Slade school of Art) along with becoming a member of the Chelsea Arts Club. With representation through the Bernard Jacobson Gallery (London) I have exhibited in galleries across the UK and Internationally.

As a British Landscape painter, I make reference to so many greats. The narrative we have with our soil, light and the rain nurtures a muse. It's possibly the small things that concern me the most. The simplicity of colour and its power as a way to bring balance or the movement and gesture a mark can make are a lasting focus. I make sure I don't overlook these thoughts and I feel their importance comes from this responsibility I have to British Landscape painting.

I am currently collaborating with Urban Herne (poet and educator) on the Supertrees Project Chester (murals for the underpasses); commissions for Chester Cathedral's Journeys project and an exciting and important commission with CHEDS at the Countess Chester Hospital.
